Golden Paragraph

I am a young and energetic consultant from Ghana with several academic qualifications in the field of rural development and research in developing countries and trained with special skills in the erasmus mundus masters in international rural development. My key areas of expertise include project proposal writing, implementation and monitoring. I have great knowledge in water, sanitation and health service delivery in rural communities and their sustainance and above all natural resource governance field experiences in developing countries. My participation in several international conferences around the globe and presentations has given me an international expereinces and network even though born and bred in an obscured villiage in Ghana. I am very Proficient in Microsoft Office Word, Excel PowerPoint and SPSS and able to meet deadlines and work independently with little supervision.
