

2003-2012

Applied Environmental Economics Conference Friday 9th March 2012, London

envecon, now in its 10th year, brings together environmental economists from public and private sectors, academia and consultancy to share recent research methods and results and discuss issues relevant to the practical application of environmental economics in the UK and elsewhere.

envecon is organised by the UK Network of Environmental Economists (UKNEE) with support from Economics for the Environment Consultancy (eftec).

Agenda

- Keynote speech by Paul Johnson, Director, Institute for Fiscal Studies
- Parallel sessions on:
 - Climate Change Policy
 - Economic Valuation
 - Ecosystem Management
 - Economic Policy for Marine and Fresh Waters
 - Economic Appraisal
 - Valuing Nature Network projects update

The conference is for everyone who is interested in environmental management and policy, not only economists – the papers and presentations are geared towards a multi-disciplinary audience.

Registration

- Conference fee: £200 (£95 for students)
- Discount for three or more delegates from the same organisation
- Fee includes delegate pack, buffet lunch, refreshments, evening reception, annual membership to UKNEE and annual subscription at the special UKNEE member rate to Journal of Environmental Economics and Policy (JEEP).

Venue

- The Royal Society, 6-9 Charlton House Terrace, London SW1Y 5AG.
