Endorse the Statement on the EU’s legislative proposals on climate change by signing it!

The Policy Outreach Committee (POC) of EAERE prepared a statement on the EU’s legislative proposals on climate change that is presented for endorsement to the whole scientific community in Europe and worldwide. The statement aims to draw the attention of policy-makers and public opinion on the implications of the legislative package and on some key challenges that need to be addressed in the future. While the package can be further improved, it takes a step in the right direction if we want to raise the ambition of the European climate policy and achieve climate neutrality by mid-century. A rapid implementation of more ambitious policies is of crucial importance to fulfill our commitments, particularly after COP26.

EAERE Annual Conference 2022 - Call for Thematic Sessions

The 27th Annual Conference of EAERE will take place in Rimini, Italy, on 28 June - 1 July 2022. Proposals are now invited for pre-organised thematic sessions at EAERE 2022, to be organised either entirely onsite or entirely online. Thematic Sessions aim to highlight current research on a subject in environmental and resource economics; they will consist of three to four papers connected by a unifying theme. The individual contributions are expected to be of very high quality, both with respect to the scientific content of the paper and the presentation. The Programme Committee will select a limited number of proposed Thematic Sessions based on scientific quality and originality. The proposed papers for these sessions will undergo the normal refereeing process; only papers that are approved will be included in the programme. Onsite thematic sessions will run in the same way as regular parallel sessions, with in-person presentations only. Online thematic sessions will be fully virtual and will take place from 2pm to 3.45pm CET or from 9 to 10.45am CET.

Special Issue on Journal of Choice Modelling: Informing decisions about climate change adaptation by choice modelling

The Special Issue: Informing decisions about climate change adaptation by choice modelling is edited by Jürgen Meyerhoff (Berlin) and Katrin Rehdanz (Kiel). As it becomes more and more unlikely to limit global warming to 2°C or less, as agreed in the Paris Agreement, the importance of adaptation and the challenges associated with selecting cost-effective and suitable adaptation options are coming to the fore. Adaptation requires trade-offs from those affected and involves many stakeholders, i.e., a wide variety of public and private institutions. Choosing specific adaptation measures or strategies goes hand in hand with sacrificing other objectives. This special issue, which has its roots in a Thematic Session at the EAERE conference in Berlin 2021, has two goals: first, we seek methodological contributions to choice modelling that present innovative applications in the field of climate change adaptation. Second, we target case studies – employing, for example, revealed or stated preference data or Big Data – to demonstrate how the results of choice modelling can inform decision-making about the trade-offs societies will face in the future. Submission is open and the deadline is end of April 2022, for further information click here or contact Jürgen Meyerhoff (juergen.meyerhoff@tu-berlin.de) or Katrin Rehdanz (rehdanz@economics.uni-kiel.de).

Climate Action Tracker: COP26 Glasgow

An initial assessment by the Climate Action Tracker of the impact of the Glasgow sectoral announcements for methane, coal, forests and transport show they would reduce the 2030 emissions gap between current government action and a 1.5°C pathway by just 9%, or 2.2bn tonnes of CO2e. This includes only the signatories of respective initiatives as of 10 November, 2021, and only accounts for reductions that are not already planned to achieve the submitted nationally determined contributions (NDCs).
