Obituary: Alistair Ulph

Ph. Credits: The University of Manchester

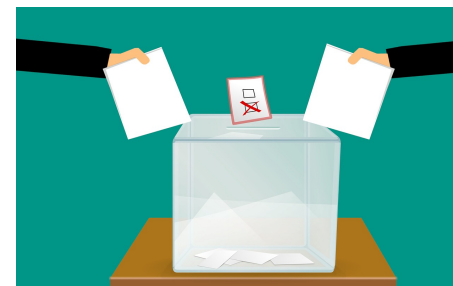

It is with the greatest regret that we inform you that our former President Alistair Ulph has passed away on October 5, 2024. Alistair Ulph was an extremely nice person, devoted to academia, to the people around him, and to the institutions he worked for. He was one of the pioneers in Europe in environmental and resource economics. He realized the importance of the European Association of Environmental and Resource Economists (EAERE) for bringing together scientists in Europe who would otherwise have to continue to work on their own. EAERE at IPCC: Scoping Meeting for Methodology Report on CDR Technologies and CCS

In mid-October 2024, an international group of experts convened in Copenhagen for an Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) Scoping Meeting focused on drafting a Methodology Report and Synthesis Report concerning Carbon Dioxide Removal (CDR) technologies and Carbon Capture Utilization and Storage. EAERE was represented by scientist Soheil Shayegh. This meeting, organized by the IPCC Task Force on National Greenhouse Gas Inventories, aimed to refine the 2006 Guidelines for national greenhouse gas inventories by reviewing various CDR methods based on six established criteria, which included identifying gaps in existing guidelines and assessing the significance and feasibility of methodologies for inventory compilers. Key CDR methods discussed, such as Direct Air Capture and CO2 Removal from Waterbodies, were proposed for inclusion in the updated guidelines, alongside suggestions for revisions to the existing Table of Contents and Terms of Reference.

ERC Awarded Projects Update

LINKS: Uncovering hidden links in climate finance by Nadia Ameli

The ERC project LINKS - Kick-starting global cLimate Investments: uncovering hidden lInks in climate finance and exploring dynamic evolution of investment networKs for policy deSign by Nadia Ameli (University College London) is coming to an end and its main research outputs have been published in a paper and even covered by The Financial Times. A timely and well-managed phase-out of bank lending to the fossil fuel sector is critical if Paris climate targets are to remain within reach. By exploring over $7 trillion of syndicated fossil fuel debt, Ameli and her team show that debt markets are resilient to unregulated decline in fossil fuel lending. However, with regulatory policies in place, a critical shift occurs: as banks begin exiting fossil fuel investments in a coordinated way, the phase-out accelerates and becomes more efficient. The speed of this shift depends on how strict the regulations are, happening faster if major global banks lead the way, but slowing down if key players - especially in the U.S., Canada, and Japan - do not coordinate their actions.
